

Peter Spahr

Liberty University

Peter Spahr was born and raised in the Philadelphia area. During a summer mission trip to Alaska Peter felt God's calling to Christian service. Peter attended Moody Bible Institute in Chicago and Moody Aviation in Elizabethton, Tennessee. He holds a B.S. in Missionary Aviation Technology with an airframe and powerplant license, a commercial pilot with instrument rating, and is a certified flight instructor.

Peter married his wife Cheri in 1992. In 1995 Peter and Cheri joined Mission Aviation Fellowship and served in Indonesia. The Spahrs spent several years in the province of East Kalimantan on the island of Borneo and most recently served in Sumatra. Peter was involved in the relief and rebuilding work from the devastating Boxing Day Tsunami of 2004.

Peter and Cheri have four children ranging in age from 5 to 12 years old. In August 2007 Peter was loaned by MAF to Liberty University's aviation department. In May 2008 Peter joined Liberty University as fulltime staff where he will be utilizing his experience as a missionary pilot to train future missionary aviators.
